Students' Right to Their Own Language

A Critical Sourcebook

Staci Perryman-Clark
David E. Kirkland
Austin Jackson

Congratulations to the editors of Students' Rights to Their Own Language Resolution: A Critical Sourcebook on its publication.

Staci Perryman-Clark, Western Michigan University

David Kirkland, Michigan State University

Austin Jackson, Michigan State University

Attend the editors' session (J15) on Friday at 2:00 p.m. Stop by the Bedford/St. Martin's booth for your free copy of the sourcebook or request your copy at bedfordstmartins.com/teachingcentral.

“For many of us, the assertion of student language rights was inextricable from our national and international quest for social justice. Those of us in the Struggle realistically acknowledged that the Students' Right to Their Own Language [Resolution] would not be sufficient to achieve our vision of language rights in the pursuit of social justice. But our mission was to call the Question. Students' Right to Their Own Language: A Critical Sourcebook is a brilliantly conceived collection that continues that tradition.”

—From the Foreword by Dr. Geneva Smitherman, Michigan State University

Second Edition

Elizabeth Wardle, University of Central Florida

Doug Downs, Montana State University

Based on Wardle and Downs' research, the first edition of Writing about Writing marked a milestone in the field of composition. Now used by tens of thousands of students, the second edition builds on this success and refines the approach to make it even more teachable with more help for understanding the rhetorical situation and an exciting new chapter on multimodal composing.
